

Daniel Wilson, P.E.

Executive Director

Mr. Wilson began as Executive Director of the North Carolina Rural Water Association (NCRWA) on October 8, 2007. Bringing a passion for the water and wastewater industry of North Carolina and a desire to continuously improve the level of service that NCRWA provides to its membership, Mr. Wilson enjoys working daily with the Individual, System, and Associate members as well as the excellent Staff and Board of Directors of the Association.

Prior to NCRWA, Mr. Wilson has served in multiple capacities within local government, public utilities, private consulting, and volunteer non-profit organizations. During his career, Mr. Wilson has experienced first-hand the issues facing operators, directors, managers, board members, and engineers as he has served in each of these capacities. These diverse experiences provide unique and valuable insight into the issues affecting the industry.

Mr. Wilson is licensed as a Professional Engineer in North Carolina and holds several utility-related certifications including a Grade A-Distribution, a Level 3-Wastewater Collections, and a Level 3-Wastewater Treatment. His education includes a Bachelors of Science in Civil Engineering from The University of North Carolina at Charlotte and a Masters of Business Administration from East Carolina University. Along with his formal education and related certifications, Mr. Wilson has attended numerous training sessions and holds other licenses and certifications in other fields.

When not working, Mr. Wilson enjoys spending time with his family, playing golf, and serving his community. His community service includes serving as President of Ansonville Volunteer Fire Department, participating in various activities at Red Hill Baptist Church, and representing District 1 on the Anson County Board of Education.

Mr. Wilson is open to all comments and suggestions for improving the services and opportunities provided by NCRWA. He may be reached by email at ncrwadlw@aol.com or by contacting the office at (336) 731-6963.
